

The Louisiana Children's Museum's Early Learning Village

New Orleans City Park

The new City Park museum will be located directly behind the Botanical Gardens and northwest of the New Orleans Museum of Art on an 8 1/2 acre space located on the edge of a lagoon. Guests will enter the museum from a bridge network over the lagoon.

The museum will be incorporating it's ideal natural setting in many learning experiences.

The museum will contain a general area free to the public with various learning and reading resources. The main museum area beyond will include many displays regarding our area, culture, art and music, and many STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) interactive exhibits.

This will be a world class museum!

Funding sources have included: state, federal and local government, local and national private individuals, corporations, foundations, and sale of the current Julia Street building.

NOGS has had a long standing relationship with the Louisiana Children's Museum (LCM) dating back to 1998 when we held our first Super Science Saturday. The museum has been such a great partner, opening their doors for great learning events to showcase geology, science and the oil industry. Energy Day, summer camps and other special events have been fun-filled learning events.

Going forward, LCM has a focus on energy, science, the environment and discovery in permanent exhibits in the City Park Museum.

We are proud to be involved with this great adventure. For those who want to get a sneak peek, NOGS and SGS will be hosting the 2015 SuperSaurus Saturday on April 18th. Please consider volunteering, or bring your children, grandchildren and friends to the event. Again we are so excited about the Louisiana Children's Museum's Early Learning Village in City Park.

Tom Bergeon and Ed Picou
NOGS Museum Initiative

For more info: lcm.org/going

